TENTH INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS ON TROPICAL
MEDICINE AND MALARIA TO MEET IN MANILA

POSTAL COMMEMORATION OF NOVEMBER MEETING POSSIBLE

Thanks to R. Ward, Rockville, MD, and J. Moohr, Chicago, for furnishing the background material and illustrations for this article.

Invitations are out for the Tenth International Congress on Tropical Medicine and Malaria (TROPMAL) which will be held in Manila, Philippines, from November 9 to 15, 1980, at the Philippine International Convention Center.

Arrangements for stamps, or some method of philatelic recognition, have been stated to be underway by TROPMAL Secretary-General, Dr. Edito G. Garcia. The Congress has the full support of both the Philippine Ministry of Health and Ministry of Tourism.

Several Miasma Philatelist readers and the publication's editor have been corresponding with Dr. Garcia urging postal commemoration of the Tenth Congress. Readers wishing to express their support of this action should contact the Secretary-General at P.O. EA-460, Manila or at the cable address: TROPMAL, Manila.

The First International Congress of Malaria met in Rome, October 4-6, 1922 and the Second Congress met in Algiers, May 19-24, 1930. The Third Congress was held jointly with the Third International Congress of Tropical Medicine in Amsterdam, September 24-October 1, 1938. No postal commemoration of these meetings has been reported.

It was the original intent that the Fourth Congresses should be held five years after the meeting in Amsterdam, but the World War interfered and made it necessary to double the interval. The Fourth Congress was finally held May 10-18, 1948, in Washington, D.C. The Secretary-General of the Fourth Congress characterized that event as much needed after the ten year delay.

"The decade which had elapsed since the Amsterdam meeting and the many scientific discoveries of recent years accentuated the need for the Fourth Congresses and added greatly to the opportunity for making available a large accumulation of useful knowledge and at the same time stimulating international cooperation in the health field. Opportunities were open for making disease control in the tropics more effective and less expensive. New insecticides and new drugs needed more accurate evaluation and wider application. Moreover the scientists and administrators in the tropical medicine field were craving an opportunity to reestablish their contacts so as to plan more effective work in their own countries and better cooperation in an international drive on tropical disease. With accelerated dissemination of new knowledge through the Congresses and strengthened central leadership through the World Health Organization and the Pan American Sanitary Bureau, there should be abundant opportunity to control disease wherever it is now entrenched." - Wilbur Sawyer, Secretary-General

Again, no examples of postal commemoration for this meeting have been seen by the author. Readers with examples are urged to forward photocopies to this publication.

TENTH INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS ON TROPICAL MEDICINE AND MALARIA SCHEDULED

Istanbul was the site for the Fifth Congress in 1953. Exact dates were not found in the research and background information. Any assistance from readers on specifics for this meeting and possible philatelic items would be appreciated.

1958 was the year for the Sixth Congress, September 5-13, which was honored by stamps issued by Portugal (see page 1) and her colonies. These issues are noted by a number of album makers as forerunners of the 1962 WHO Anti-Malaria campaign issues. The Ayal album identifies them in error as issued for the Eighth Congress.

Angola Scott #409
Cape Verde Scott #303
Macao Scott #392

Portugal Scott #836-7
Port. Guinea Scott #295
Port. India Scott #569

The Seventh Congress was held September 1-11, 1963 in Rio de Janeiro. Brazil honored this session with a special commemorative cachet cover and hand cancel. On the reverse of the cover appeared brief biographical notes on the five Brazilians illustrated (four by use of prior commemorative issues). These write-ups and the cover illustration appear in this issue's Personalities on Postage column.

Iran issued a set of two stamps (Scott #1480-1) and had a official philatelic sales booth in the Eighth Congress' registration area offering the stamps, covers and hand cancel service. The session was held in Teheran, September 7-15, 1968. Photo copies of the cover(s) and cancel are needed to complete the reference collection for Miasma Philatelist.

October 14-21, 1973, the Ninth Congress was held in Athens, Greece. And, now, the Tenth Congress is scheduled.

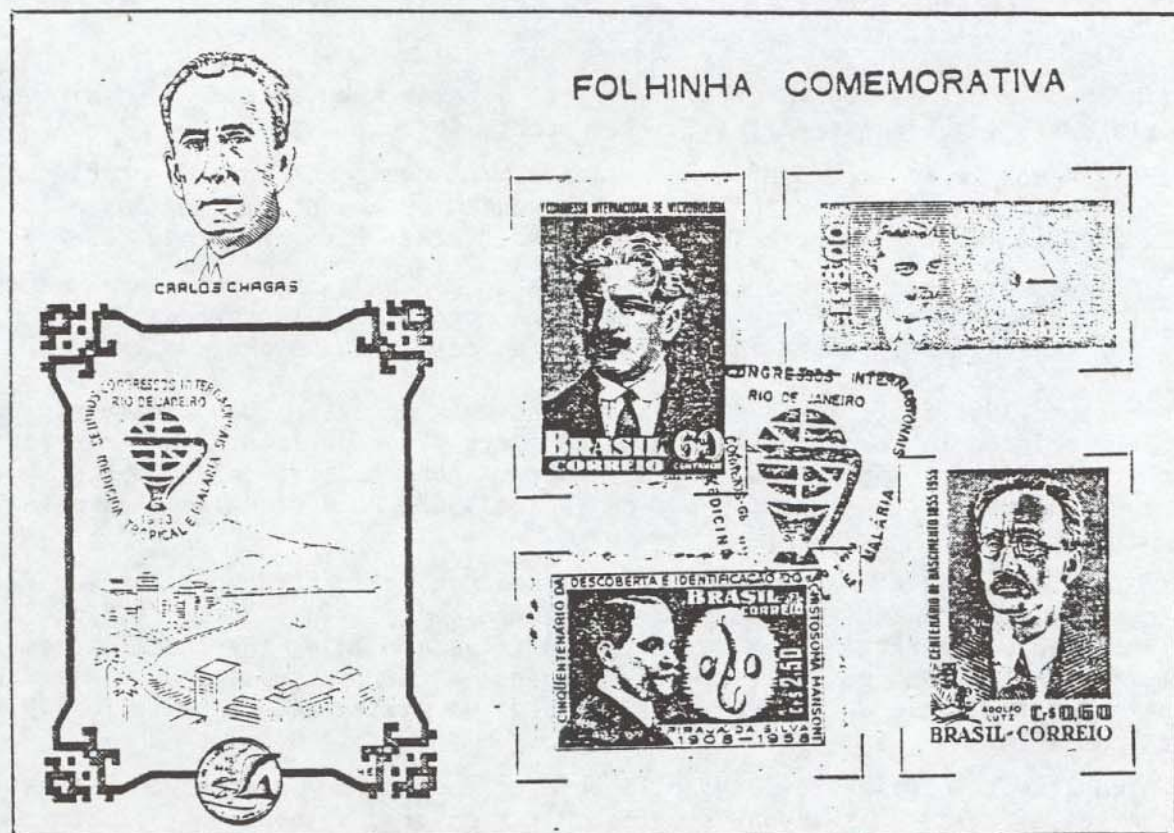

Readers planning to attend TROPMAL in Manila -- or knowing someone who will be attending -- are asked to contact the editor. If possible, arrangements will be made to acquire available and unique philatelic material for Miasma Philatelist readers.

Please drop the editor a note if you wish to receive further information on arrangements that are made for acquisition of stamps, covers, etc. from TROPMAL.

The illustrated cover and following personality profiles are from the collection of J. Moohr, Chicago, IL. Cover issued to honor the Seventh International Congress on Tropical Medicine and Malaria, Rio de Janeiro, Sept. 1-11, 1963. (see article on page 1)

Carlos Chagas (1879-1934) was born in the town of Oliveira, Minas Gerais; worked in the Instituto Oswaldo Cruz of which he was director. In 1905 established the theory that "malaria is a home acquired disease" and in 1909 discovered Chagas disease, its agent Trypanosoma Schisotrypanum cruzi, its vector Panstrongilus megistus and its animal reservoirs.

Oswald Cruz (1872-1917) was born in Sao Paulo. Was the founder and director of the Instituto Manguinfios (now Instituto Oswald Cruz). Pioneer of experimental medicine in Brazil and implanted successful sanitary measures, in the fight against yellow fever, malaria, plague and small pox. Won the first prize during the Berlin exhibit of 1907. (continued on page 5)

RUMOR OR FACT

QUESTIONS ON THE MALARIA TOPIC IN NEED OF ANSWERS

#7 Does anyone have a listing of all known cachets from the Philippines for their '62 WHO anti-malaria issues' first day covers and information on the designer(s)? I have 14 different and am quite impressed with the different ideas that were created and shown with these cachets. - J. Moohr, Chicago

John has sent in photo copies of the 14 different covers he has, send in photo copies of any you have and a master listing may be possible. Does anyone have information on the designer(s)??? With enough reader input this will make a feature for a future issue.

#8 What is the correct catalog and catalog number for the '62 anti-malaria overprints for South Kasai? They have been referenced both as Gibbons and Yvert #30-34 but appear in neither catalog. - E. Petscher, Massillon, OH

HELP!! Prior listings were for collector sales / want list. What is the correct -- if any -- identification?

#9 I "found" a Guinea 10¢ inverted overprint I never knew existed. Do all values exist with inverted overprints? - J. Moohr, Chicago

Assume reference is to Scott #B25 which exists with overprint in red, orange and black. Photo copies with notation on the color of inverted overprint will be added to the reference collection. Anyone else out there have other EFOs on Guinea B25-29?

Note: C. Clemmer, Chicago, has already furnished copies of his perforation and vignette errors for Guinea C29-31. There include missing verticle perforations, missing horizontal perforations, inverted vignette, plus left- and up-shift vignettes.

#10 For Laos' 1962 Scott lists #74-6 and a souvenir sheet as does Zinsmeister with #74-6 printed in sheets of 25. Newerla lists #74-6 perforate and imperforate plus souvenir sheets. The ATA's UN and Insects handbooks list only #74-6. What are the actual issues for Laos' participation in the 1962 WHO anti-malaria campaign? - E. James, London

To date the following items' photo copies (or actual) are in the reference collection: #74-6 perforate, matching first day covers, imperforate, mini-sheets of 4 and an imperforate souvenir sheet (13mm x 10mm) with illustration of the three values plus inscription in Laotian and English. The souvenir sheet is reported by Zinsmeister to have been limited to 1,000 copies with 500 used for presentations and only 500 sold to the "public."

#11 Which stamps on fish, fowl and oil would properly represent those used in malaria control efforts? Has anyone studies this area or developed a listing of possible items for consideration? - E. James, London

Some readers have noted this sub-topic area as of interest and/or in their collection. Hope each of you will share your findings. Send identification and photocopies of fish, fowl (duck??) or oil topicals that you use/recommend as acceptable in a malaria thematic presentation.

MALARIA THEME APPEARS IN NATIONAL PUBLICATION COLUMN

The editor of this publication has been requested to assist in development of a "Topical Postmarks" column for Linn's Stamp News. Material furnished came from the reference collection built to allow illustration of this journal and the planned handbook.

#2 Additional information on Bhutan's unissued malaria eradication stamps: with thanks to E. Petscher, Massillon, OH., for furnishing a clipping from Linn's. This item announced Bhutan's joining the stamp issuing countries on May 16, 1962, with release of seven definitives (Scott #1-7) followed by two World Refugee Year commemoratives (Scott #8-9). A 1.30 nultum malaria eradication commemorative -- with the same design as the 33 cheytrum value illustrated in this column (issue #2) -- was also reported as issued and was illustrated. Linn's source was noted as the Bhutan Trust Co., Ltd. of Nassau, Bahamas, via data originally published in Stamp Collecting and Philatelic Magazine, both British publications. Thus, to date, it appears that two values were planned but not issued due to the Buddha illustration and only one sheet of the 33 cheytrum value made its escape to the philatelic market.

PERSONALITIES . . . (continued from page 3)

Adolfo Lutz (1855-1940) was born in Rio de Janeiro and worked at the Instituto Bacteriologico de Sao Paulo and the Instituto Oswaldo Cruz. He was an outstanding clinician, epidemiologist, zoologist, pathologist and laboratory worker. Discovered the "juxta articularis nodules" (Lutz-Jeanselme nodules) and the South American plasmomycosis (Lutz mycosis).

Piraja da Silva (1873-1962) was born in the town of Camamu, Bahia. He authored several research works in the old School of Medicine of Bahia; identified Schistosoma Mansoni in 1908 and won the Bernard Nocht Medal of the Institut fur Schiffs und Tropenhranheiten, Hamburg.

Gaspar Vianna (1885-1914) was born in the town of Belem, Paraguay. He did research work on tropical medicine and malaria at the Intitute Manguinhos for five years, studying the pathology of Chagas disease, identified the tissue forms of Trypanosoma S. Cruzi (Leishmania), described the Leishmania brasiliensis in 1911 and discovered the treatment of leishmaniosis by emetic tartar in 1912.

ORGANIZATION FOR MALARIA TOPICAL AND THEMATIC COLLECTORS PROPOSED

With a world-wide range of collectors joining the readership of Miasma Philatelist the interest in this topical/thematic area is sufficient to consider a formal organization. This action is proposed to ensure continuity in production of this journal, development of a definitive handbook/catalog and development of a master reference collection of both philatelic items and information related to Malaria.

In addition, a formal organization should be able to generate more awareness and further expand the number of collectors involved in exchange of information and collectables. To this end, a membership application and ballot for approval of the proposed constitution and by-laws of Malaria Philatelists International are included in this issue of Miasma Philatelist. Also included is a draft of the proposed framework for organization and operation of the group.

Readers who currently subscribe may transfer their subscription to dues. Charter memberships are offered at $5 (US, Canada and Mexico), $10 Foreign. The group will become official with the enrollment of at least 10 members including six willing to serve as officers. It is hoped that this minimum goal will be quickly reached so that 1981 will be the charter year.

The proposed constitution and by-laws appear on pages 11-14. The membership application and bollot for approval appear on pages 15.

CARD ALSO ISSUED FOR 1960 EUROPEAN CONFERENCE IN PALERMO

A private postal card was also available as a philatelic moment of the March 31, 1960, European Conference of Malaria Eradication held in Palermo, Italy. Thanks to a reader who requested to remain anonymous for providing a photo copy which has been added to the reference collection.

The card's message portion is filled with the same multi-language special overprint as found on the cover illustrated in Vol. 1, Issue 2. The only difference being the control number identification "cartolina ufficiale" and "carte officielle". The Palermo special cancel and "official WHO" endorsement cancel shown on the cover also appear on the card.

The face of the card is an illustrated map of Sicily and its major tourist attractions. Background information is still needed on the conference itself and its philatelic items.

LANDSCAPE STAMP SHOWS AREA WHERE ERADICATION WAS BASED ON DRAINAGE PROJECT

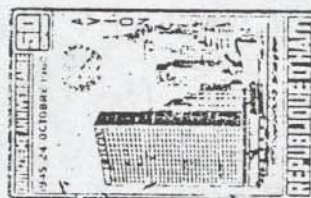

The 1956 Israel airmal (Scott #C15) depicts the landscape of Lake Hula. A previously malarial area, the swamps and marshes of the Hula Valley disappeared as a result of a major drainage project carried out by the Jewish National Fund. Large areas were turned into agricultural soil; rich reserves of peat were revealed; and the water which formerly evaporated from the swamps is now utilized for irrigation.
